This research uses operations research to develop and implement decision support tools that help public health officials plan for emergencies such as anthrax attacks, smallpox, and pandemic flu outbreaks.